Two More Minneapolis Police Officers Indicted

JOS. A. LEHMEYER,
FRED SCHROEDER
ARE TWO NAMED

REPORTED ONE INDICTMENT
CHARGES NEGLECT OF DUTY,
OTHER ACCEPTING GRATUITY

BOTH CHARGES SAID TO HAVE GROWN OUT JEWEL ROBBERY
OF MRS. FREDRICK KING

Minneapolis, May 8. — (U.P.) — Two more Minneapolis police officers had been indicted today by a grand jury investigating charges of "protection of vice by law enforcement officials."

The two men were Joseph A. Lehmeier, night captain of detectives, and Fred Schroeder, detective. The men would not comment on the charges, they said, until they had specific information of what they were.

It was reported that one indictment charged both men with willful neglect of duty and the other with accepting a gratuity. Both charges were said to have grown out of a $2,000 jewel robbery of Mrs. Fredrick King, wife of the proprietor of the Del Otero hotel at Lake Minnetonka.

The jewels were taken last summer and, after the two Minneapolis detectives, worked on the case, were returned in September on payment of $225 by King.

The only other indictment considered by the jurors, it was said, was another one against S. J. Gustafson, suspended head of the morals squad of the Minneapolis police. Gustafson was indicted previously but the charges were dismissed because the court ruled them too general in character. At that time the former morals squad head pleaded not guilty and alleged that his indictment was involved with the Minneapolis mayor's race.

Gustafson's indictment was reported to be the only action which the jury would consider before it adjourns late today or Saturday. That will end the six-week investigation of vice, gambling and liquor trafficking. Members of the jury have held raids on suspected speakeasies and gambling places and have attempted to uncover an alliance between the police department and law violators. Aside from the raids, the dismissed indictment of Gustafson and the two indictments against detectives have been the only action taken.

Chicago, May 8. — (U.P.) — Two former officials and a police captain were under call today to explain financial mysteries disclosed by two agencies investigating charges of graft in high places.

The former officials, members of the William Hale Thompson administration which Mayor Anton J. Cermak swept out of office, were called to appear next Monday before a special grand jury to explain a shortage of $40,204.75, discovered in the accounts of the city treasurer and chief cashier.

The police captain, John Ptacek of the Lawndale station, was called to explain reports that he made bank deposits of $227,000 in five years on a salary of $4,000 annually.

"I'll give $1,000 in cash to charity if anyone can prove I ever took a dishonest penny," was Capt. Ptacek's answer.

The report that the two former city officials were short in their accounts was made by James A. Kearns, recently elected city treasurer. He reported after an audit that in March there was a shortage of more than $100,000 in the accounts of E. G. Bingham, then chief cashier, and August Singer, treasurer at that time. All except $40,204.75 of this was made up before the officials were replaced by Cermak appointees April 30, Kearns said.

TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGED VIOLATION OF ANTI-TRUST LAWS

St. Paul, May 8. — (U.P.) — Gov. Floyd B. Olson, in cooperation with a joint legislative committee, will start an investigation within the next two weeks into alleged violation of the state anti-trust laws, it was announced today.

"The investigation will be expanded into all consolidations and mergers made in recent years without approval of the attorney general," Olson said.

Butler Ordered to Cancel Speaking Dates for 2 Days

Philadelphia, May 8. — (U.P.) — Major General Smedley D. Butler returned to Quantico today under orders from Dr. Ellwood Kirby to cancel all speaking engagements for the next two days.

His illness with laryngitis may delay his trip to Oregon, where he is to go to organize a new state police system.

3 PRISONERS BREAK JAIL AFTER BLINDING TRUSTY WITH PEPPER

Bridgeport, Conn., May 8. — (U.P.) — Three prisoners escaped from Fairfield county jail today after blinding a trusty with salt and pepper.

Lieutenant William Harkins, formerly of Memphis, Tenn., described by police as a notorious forger with a coast-to-coast record, led the escape attempt. He reached the street with Fred Santos, Boston youth awaiting trial in superior court for alleged theft of an automobile. A third man, Joseph Vanderpeper of New York, was captured and returned to his cell.

The trusty was unlocking cells so the prisoners could march to breakfast. Reports said Harkins carried a gun with which he held up the guards.

2 MEN HOLD UP BANK IN ELKTON, S. D.

ROB CORN EXCHANGE BANK
AND ESCAPE WITH $2,500
IN CASH

3 BANK OFFICIALS ORDERED
INTO VAULT AS FAIR FLASH
LARGE AUTOMATICS

Elkton, S. D., May 8. — Two bandits held up the Corn Exchange Bank today and escaped with approximately $2,500 in cash.

Three bank officials, L. C. Foreman, president; R. F. Petschow, cashier and Miss F. A. Kaemper, assistant cashier were in the bank when the bandits entered.

The bandits produced large automatic pistols and ordered the three officials into the vault. Cash drawers, vault and cages were ransacked and every bit of currency in the bank including small change was taken by the men.

The bandits completed their robbery in less than five minutes and fled in a small coupe with a Minnesota license. After the bank employees had been in the vault about five minutes a customer entered and spread the alarm. They were released immediately.

Sheriff O. Lundeen organized posse and spread an alarm to neighboring cities. Although several passersby noticed the bandit automobile, and saw the men leave the bank, no one knew which direction they took in escaping.

Elkton is near the Minnesota-South Dakota border line. It is about 20 miles east of Brookings, S. D.

3 BANDITS ROB WINNIPEG BANK, KILL MANAGER

BRANCH OF DOMINION BANK IS ROBBED OF ABOUT
$6,800

P. B. R. TUCKER FAILS TO HEAR
"HANDS UP" AND IS SHOT DOWN

Winnipeg, Man., May 8. — (U.P.) — Three bandits robbed a branch of the Dominion Bank today, shot and killed P. B. R. Tucker, partly deaf manager, when he failed to hear their command of "hands up," and escaped with about $6,800.

Tucker was shot twice in the stomach a few seconds after the bandits entered the bank. The robbers left him to die on the floor while they ransacked the vault and tellers' cages, refusing to let three other employees of the bank go to his aid.

The manager was walking toward his office, with his back toward the door, when the bandits entered with pistols in their hands. The other bank employees, Douglas J. Tyson, cashier; C. W. Wilson, teller, and Helen McLeod, bookkeeper, raised their hands.

Apparently hearing the commotion but failing to understand the bandits' orders, Tucker turned to glance backward. One of the robbers fired twice and the manager fell.

A window washer and a woman passerby saw the robbery and notified police. An alarm was spread to the neighboring cities. The automobile in which the bandits escaped had been stolen.

Glendale, Calif., May 8. — (U.P.) — The condition of Clara Bow, screen actress who is in the Glendale sanitarium suffering from a nervous breakdown, today was reported improved. During the last 24 hours Miss Bow has slept more peacefully, Dr. J. Wesley Hommel reported. Electrical treatments and massages have been prescribed for the actress.

Courtauld, Lone Explorer, Found in Greenland Ice Cap Wilderness by Watkins Sledge Party

AND DISCOVERS COURTAULD'S EMPTY HUT

SIGHTS SLEDGE PARTY ON THE ROUTE TO BASE CAMP AND INFORMS GOVERNMENTS

Copenhagen, May 8. — Augustine Courttauld, rich young Briton who had been immured in the wilderness of the Greenland ice-cap, was safe today and trudging slowly toward the nearest outpost of civilization.

A sledge party led by H. G. Watkins and made more determined by repeated failures to locate Courttauld, finally found the young explorer on the inland ice. Watkins is chief of the British Arctic aerial route expedition which left Courttauld in a little meteorological station on the ice-cap last summer to spend the winter alone, awaiting relief which failed to reach him last month when his supplies were exhausted.

Wireless messages received by the fishing ministry said the rescue expeditions by land, sea and air had, at last, been successful and that Courttauld, in the company of the Watkins party, was trekking toward the base camp of the expedition, not far from Angmagssalik, on the southeastern coast of Greenland. They were expected to arrive there in a few days.

Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, the famous Swedish pilot, who made a bold journey from Norway to Greenland by plane to aid the rescue work, added to his laurels in the success of the expedition. Taking considerable risk on the treacherous ice, Ahrenberg flew from the base camp to a point about 140 miles away, where he located the hut in which Courttauld had spent the winter.

Encouraged by finding the little station which the sledge parties had been unable to locate, Ahrenberg risked landing his plane—only to find the hut was empty.

The Swedish flier began his return trip to the base camp, keeping a sharp watch for Courttauld or the Watkins party which had been out more than two weeks. He sighted the party and Courttauld on the route to the base camp and immediately broadcast the news of Courttauld's safety.

Britain, Denmark and Sweden had participated in the search for Courttauld, who had remained on the ice last winter to make meteorological observations in an effort to prove the practicability of a northern air route from England to America. Ahrenberg, who willingly undertook the rescue flight, had flown in the region previously but encountered such unfavorable conditions that he declared the route inadvisable.

Courttauld is the son of a wealthy silk manufacturer. The Watkins expedition left London last July, going to Greenland on the ship west. The Arctic exploration was to set a route via the Faroe Islands, Iceland and Greenland to Canada.

WOMAN AND MAN BATTLE TO DEATH

SURVIVOR AND ANOTHER WOMAN
THEN QUARREL FOR POSSESSION OF BODY

Chicago, May 8. — (U.P.) — A battle to death between a woman armed with a butcher knife and a man armed with a meat cleaver was disclosed today as the victor and another woman quarrelled over possession of the body of the man loser.

The women, Mrs. Edith Loewe and Phyllis Loewe, each claimed to be the wife of Arthur Loewe, whom Phyllis was charged with stabbing to death with the knife.

Phyllis Loewe said the man, a police character, attacked her with the cleaver and that she won through luck in the strange duel.

Edith Loewe declared she had been married to Loewe for 15 years and never knew that he maintained an apartment in which he lived with Phyllis Loewe, who claimed she was married to him in 1925.

The slaying occurred in the apartment.

2 SOLDIERS DROWN IN ARMY BLIMP'S FORCED DESCENT

Langley Field, Va., May 8. — (U.P.) — Two soldiers were drowned last night when the army blimp TC-10 was abandoned at sea after making a forced descent on the York river near Dare, Va.

The soldiers, Anthony Brabitt of Shamokin, Pa., and James McDonnell of Natick, Mass., were towing the balloon back to Langley field when the tow line broke and they were swept into the water. The blimp was abandoned.

The TC-10 had become fog-bound between Richmond and Hampton Roads Wednesday after carrying Governor Pollard of Virginia to the apple blossom festival at Winchester.

BRIAND FACES BITTER TEST OF HIS CAREER

KNOWN AMONG ADMIRERS BE-CAUSE OF CONCILIATORY
POLICY

IS NOW CENTER OF A FURIOUS
STRUGGLE, FACTIONS WISH
TO OUST HIM

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, May 8. — Aristide Briand, veteran of many European political crises, was threatened today by the bitterest and one of the most serious parliamentary tests of his career.

Known among admirers of his conciliatory policy as "the man of peace," Briand has been made the center of a furious struggle in which the nationalist elements have taken the lead against the foreign minister in a determined effort to oust him from the foreign ministry in a test vote, probably late Friday.

The bitterness of the controversy and the possibilities of violence have been indicated by the heavy police guard at the chamber of deputies and by riotous demonstration last night by royalist students.

A crowd of 300 students created a tumult at the chamber of deputies during debate on foreign policy. The anti-Briand demonstration was ended only by the charge of police. Little resistance was offered by the students, many of whom were arrested but released later.

Despite his policies in the foreign office, Briand has promised as vigorous a counter-attack as that already under way by his political foes. Not only the question of foreign policy but the question of the presidential election is involved in the debate in the chamber, which started calmly enough yesterday but was expected to become more tense today and tomorrow.

FURTHER DEMANDS FOR LOWERING OF THE TARIFF WALLS

FOR ADJUSTMENTS OF WAR
DEBTS AND REPARA-
TIONS, ETC.

CONFRONTING INTERNATIONAL
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
DELIBERATIONS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 8. — Further demands for lowering of tariff walls and adjustments of war debts and reparations confronted the International Chamber of Commerce today as it prepared to take its policy on these and other controversial issues.

The most insistent plea for reduction of tariffs yet made came today from an Englishman, Dr. W. H. Coates, who, borrowing a symbol from the traffic signal system, said:

"This congress should call upon all the national committees in high tariff countries to urge their governments to block out the red tariff lights, before which trade traffic now halts in helpless immobility, in order that, released from the brakes of tariff taxes, those whose task it is to drive international trade may once again proceed at full speed under the golden lights of caution and the green lights of freedom."

This first open demand that the convention go on record against high tariffs, following so closely upon bold demands that the American and foreign business men declare themselves for revision of war debts and reparations, further complicated the delicate task of the resolutions committee in formulating the policies which it will ask the convention to endorse at the final session tomorrow.

It became evident today that leaders of the convention are determined to apply the brakes to the very manifest efforts of various foreign delegates to use the convention as a lever for promoting international political action.

President Georges Theunis, who also is chairman of the resolutions committee, warned that the chamber could not occupy itself with "political questions," emphasized that the business men have come here to discuss their problems "amicably" and explained that it is "entirely up to the governments to determine what general measures shall be adopted in order to best serve the interests of the communities at large."

This warning was interpreted as being directed against the desire of the British delegation here, supported by the Germans, to have the convention go on record in some way for consideration of possible revision of reparations and war debts, to clear the way for concerted action by the heads of these governments a month hence to reopen the question.

CUNARD LINER BERENGARIA RUNS AGROUND IN FOG

New York, May 8. — (U.P.) — The big Cunard liner Berengaria, inbound from Europe, went aground in a heavy fog today off Sandy Hook. The big liner pulled into soft mud off the point of the harbor where Gravesend Bay and Ambrose Channel meet.

New York, May 8. — (U.P.) — The S. S. Berengaria, third largest liner in the world, which went aground in the soft mud at the entrance of New York harbor, was refloated this afternoon. The liner, carrying 478 passengers, had gone on the mud bank during a heavy fog which blanketed the harbor.

2 GUNS CROWLEY WOUNDED, TAKEN CAPTIVE TODAY

YOUTH HAD VOWED THAT NO
"COPPER" WOULD EVER
TAKE HIM ALIVE

HELD 150 POLICEMEN AT BAY
FOR AN HOUR; ALMOST
1,000 SHOTS FIRED

New York, May 8. — Francis (Two Guns) Crowley, curly-haired youth of 20, who vowed that no "copper" would ever take him alive, was a captive today.

After a battle against 150 policemen, armed with machine guns, revolvers and tear gas bombs, Crowley and two companions, one his 16-year-old sweetheart, surrendered.

Crowley is wanted for the killing of Policeman Fred Hirsch in a lonely Nassau county lane early Wednesday.

Rudolph Durringer, also wanted in connection with the slaying of Virginia Branden, dance hall hostess, and Helen Walsh, the youthful gunman's "girl," were with Crowley when police poured almost a thousand shots into their furnished apartment just off Riverside Drive.

With two revolvers in his hands, weapons which authorities say he took from victims of his hasty trigger action, the youth held off the blue coated besiegers for an hour while 10,000 persons looked on. Only after he had been wounded three times and his supply of ammunition had become exhausted did he quit.

At 10:30 A. M., a hastily assembled county grand jury returned an indictment against Crowley charging first degree murder for the brutal killing of Policeman Fredrick Hirsch. The indictment was drawn up and signed by the jury foreman after the jurors had heard the story of the killer's sweetheart, 16-year-old Helen Walsh, captured with him in the mass police attack on their Manhattan apartment late yesterday. Arrangements were being made, before even the indictment was signed, to have the trial set down for a week from next Monday.

While the jury was in session arrangements were made to transfer Crowley from the Bellevue hospital in Manhattan, where he was taken after the capture to the Nassau county hospital at Mineola. Four armed men were to ride inside the ambulance with Crowley and it was to be preceded and followed by policemen in cars and on motorcycles.

The girl was taken to the Nassau jail last night and in an early morning conference with District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, assured him that she would tell the whole story to the jurors and at the trial.

NATIONAL GUARD PATROLS STREETS

READY TO PUT DOWN ANY DIS-
ORDERS IN EVARTS,
KENTUCKY

Evarts, Ky., May 8. — (U.P.) — Miners and citizens went about their work today with national guardsmen patrolling the streets, ready to put down any disorders such as have claimed 12 lives and caused nearly all of the women to evacuate.

Nearly 400 officers and militiamen guarded the town in regular shifts, dispersing street gatherings and ordering loiterers to move on. The guardsmen were quartered in box cars and cabooses, under command of Colonel Dan Carrell.

An air of unrest prevailed among the "left wing" union miners, who resented the calling of the guardsmen, cavalry units, when Sheriff John Henry Blair and his deputies were unable to control the situation. Threats of violence were frequent and groups numbering as high as 1,000 men demonstrated here and at Harlan against the troops.

Col. Carrell said the riotous conditions seemed to have subsided and the

FIVE CHILDREN FATALLY HURT, 16 OTHERS SERIOUS

ENTIRE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY, CALIF., APPALLED BY ACCIDENT

DRIVER FAILED TO SEE FREIGHT
APPROACHING, NORTH OF MERCED

Merced, Cal., May 8. — (U.P.) — Muriel Keller, 10, died today, raising the death toll to six for the grade crossing accident yesterday when a school bus was struck by a Santa Fe freight train.

Her death was caused by a fractured skull, sustained when the bus was splintered as it stopped on the tracks directly in front of the slow moving train.

Three children were killed instantly under the wheels of the freight and the Keller girl was the third to die of injuries.

Merced, Cal., May 8. — (U.P.) — The toll of dead and injured in a collision between a locomotive and a stage filled with 44 children continued to mount today with five fatalities, six probably fatally hurt and 16 others in a serious condition.

The entire San Joaquin valley was appalled by the accident, the worst grade crossing mishap in its history. A slow moving Santa Fe railroad engine struck the loaded bus, shunting the machine and its screaming occupants 50 feet down the tracks and then tossed them to one side.

Some of the children, all between 6 and 10 years old, were crushed inside the bus. Others were thrown under the trucks of the locomotive and the rest fell beside the tracks. Only 19 escaped with minor injuries. Airplanes brought child specialists from San Francisco and today the physicians waged a desperate fight to save the most seriously injured.

The children killed were Roy and Dolores Epton, 8-year-old twins, Jean Ahr, 10, Robert Fuller, 10, and Marshall Pintle, 8.

Among those not expected to live was J. B. Kregger, 50, driver of the bus. He was conscious for a few minutes after the crash. His only words were, "I did not see the train."

All the children lived in the Bear Creek agricultural section, north of Merced. They were homeward bound from school yesterday afternoon when the crash occurred.

The freight train, bound from Fresno to Riverbank, had slowed down for the crossing, Engineer George Parks and Conductor J. A. Holmes said, but the bus ran on to the tracks so quickly they could not stop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wickland were in an automobile behind the closed bus as it started across the tracks. They said the bus did not stop for the crossing.

"I saw the train coming," Wickland said. "The children in the bus screamed. Then their cries were drowned out by the crash. The children were scattered along the tracks while others were trapped inside. It was horrible."

SALE OF GRAPE CONCENTRATES IS CHALLENGED

Kansas City, Mo., May 8. — (U.P.) — Thomas J. Layson, assistant United States district attorney, today filed formal charges of violating the national prohibition act against the Ukiah Grape Products, Inc., of New York.

This was considered the first definite move in a test challenge of the legality of the sale of grape concentrates which may be fermented into wine.

The case is believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

The charge as filed does not call for grand jury action. The offense is considered a misdemeanor, punishable on the first offense by a maximum fine of $500.

FOREST FIRES ARE NOW UNDER CONTROL

St. Paul, Minn., May 8. — (U.P.) — Intermittent showers and cold weather enabled the state forestry department to bring all forest fires in northern Minnesota under control, A. F. Oppel, deputy state forester, said today.

A few blazes of minor nature are still smoldering but will be stamped out within a few days, it was said.

Cloudy weather with not much change in temperature was predicted for tonight and tomorrow by the United States weather bureau today.

Traces of precipitation were recorded in many parts of the state today, the weather bureau said.

Arrival of the guardsmen had had a quieting effect upon the disgruntled miners.

"Evarts is not under martial law," he said. "Personally I see no reason for such action at the present. Of course, if martial law is declared it will come from Governor Sampson."

He said he had noticed no overt acts since he arrived and was of the opinion citizens apparently wanted to cooperate with him in restoring order.

Britain, Denmark and Sweden had participated in the search for Courttauld, who had remained on the ice last winter to make meteorological observations in an effort to prove the practicability of a northern air route from England to America. Ahrenberg, who willingly undertook the rescue flight, had flown in the region previously but encountered such unfavorable conditions that he declared the route inadvisable.

Courttauld is the son of a wealthy silk manufacturer. The Watkins expedition left London last July, going to Greenland on the ship west. The Arctic exploration was to set a route via the Faroe Islands, Iceland and Greenland to Canada.

WOMAN AND MAN BATTLE TO DEATH

SURVIVOR AND ANOTHER WOMAN
THEN QUARREL FOR
POSSESSION OF BODY

Chicago, May 8. — (U.P.) — A battle to death between a woman armed with a butcher knife and a man armed with a meat cleaver was disclosed today as the victor and another woman quarrelled over possession of the body of the man loser.

The women, Mrs. Edith Loewe and Phyllis Loewe, each claimed to be the wife of Arthur Loewe, whom Phyllis was charged with stabbing to death with the knife.

Phyllis Loewe said the man, a police character, attacked her with the cleaver and that she won through luck in the strange duel.

Edith Loewe declared she had been married to Loewe for 15 years and never knew that he maintained an apartment in which he lived with Phyllis Loewe, who claimed she was married to him in 1925.

The slaying occurred in the apartment.

2 SOLDIERS DROWN IN ARMY BLIMP'S FORCED DESCENT

Langley Field, Va., May 8. — (U.P.) — Two soldiers were drowned last night when the army blimp TC-10 was abandoned at sea after making a forced descent on the York river near Dare, Va.

The soldiers, Anthony Brabitt of Shamokin, Pa., and James McDonnell of Natick, Mass., were towing the balloon back to Langley field when the tow line broke and they were swept into the water. The blimp was abandoned.

The TC-10 had become fog-bound between Richmond and Hampton Roads Wednesday after carrying Governor Pollard of Virginia to the apple blossom festival at Winchester.

BRIAND FACES BITTER TEST OF HIS CAREER

KNOWN AMONG ADMIRERS BE-CAUSE OF CONCILIATORY
POLICY

IS NOW CENTER OF A FURIOUS
STRUGGLE, FACTIONS WISH
TO OUST HIM

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, May 8. — Aristide Briand, veteran of many European political crises, was threatened today by the bitterness and one of the most serious parliamentary tests of his career.

Known among admirers of his conciliatory policy as "the man of peace," Briand has been made the center of a furious struggle in which the nationalistic elements have taken the lead against the foreign minister in a determined effort to oust him from the foreign ministry in a test vote, probably late Friday.

The bitterness of the controversy and the possibilities of violence have been indicated by the heavy police guard at the chamber of deputies and by riotous demonstration last night by royalist students.

A crowd of 300 students created a tumult at the chamber of deputies during debate on foreign policy. The anti-Briand demonstration was ended only by the charge of police. Little resistance was offered by the students, many of whom were arrested but released later.

Despite his policies in the foreign office, Briand has promised as vigorous a counter-attack as that already under way by his political foes. Not only the question of foreign policy but the question of the presidential election is involved in the debate in the chamber, which started calmly enough yesterday but was expected to become more tense today and tomorrow.

FURTHER DEMANDS FOR LOWERING OF THE TARIFF WALLS

FOR ADJUSTMENTS OF WAR
DEBTS AND REPARA-
TIONS, ETC.

CONFRONTING INTERNATIONAL
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
DELIBERATIONS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 8. — Further demands for lowering of tariff walls and adjustments of war debts and reparations confronted the International Chamber of Commerce today as it prepared to take its policy on these and other controversial issues.

The most insistent plea for reduction of tariffs yet made came today from an Englishman, Dr. W. H. Coates, who, borrowing a symbol from the traffic signal system, said:

"This congress should call upon all the national committees in high tariff countries to urge their governments to block out the red tariff lights, before which trade traffic now halts in helpless immobility, in order that, released from the brakes of tariff taxes, those whose task it is to drive international trade may once again proceed at full speed under the golden lights of caution and the green lights of freedom."

This first open demand that the convention go on record against high tariffs, following so closely upon bold demands that the American and foreign business men declare themselves for revision of war debts and reparations, further complicated the delicate task of the resolutions committee in formulating the policies which it will ask the convention to endorse at the final session tomorrow.

It became evident today that leaders of the convention are determined to apply the brakes to the very manifest efforts of various foreign delegates to use the convention as a lever for promoting international political action.

President Georges Theunis, who also is chairman of the resolutions committee, warned that the chamber could not occupy itself with "political questions," emphasized that the business men have come here to discuss their problems "amicably" and explained that it is "entirely up to the governments to determine what general measures shall be adopted in order to best serve the interests of the communities at large."

This warning was interpreted as being directed against the desire of the British delegation here, supported by the Germans, to have the convention go on record in some way for consideration of possible revision of reparations and war debts, to clear the way for concerted action by the heads of these governments a month hence to reopen the question.

CUNARD LINER BERENGARIA RUNS AGROUND IN FOG

New York, May 8. — (U.P.) — The big Cunard liner Berengaria, inbound from Europe, went aground in a heavy fog today off Sandy Hook.

The big liner pulled into soft mud off the point of the harbor where Gravesend Bay and Ambrose Channel meet.

New York, May 8. — (U.P.) — The S. S. Berengaria, third largest liner in the world, which went aground in the soft mud at the entrance of New York harbor, was refloated this afternoon.

The liner, carrying 478 passengers, had gone on the mud bank during a heavy fog which blanketed the harbor.

2 GUNS CROWLEY WOUNDED, TAKEN CAPTIVE TODAY

YOUTH HAD VOWED THAT NO
"COPPER" WOULD EVER
TAKE HIM ALIVE

HELD 150 POLICEMEN AT BAY
FOR AN HOUR; ALMOST
1,000 SHOTS FIRED

New York, May 8. — Francis (Two Guns) Crowley, curly-haired youth of 20, who vowed that no "copper" would ever take him alive, was a captive today.

After a battle against 150 policemen, armed with machine guns, revolvers and tear gas bombs, Crowley and two companions, one his 16-year-old sweetheart, surrendered.

Crowley was wanted for the killing of Policeman Fred Hirsch in a lonely Nassau county lane early Wednesday.

Rudolph Durringer, also wanted in connection with the slaying of Virginia Branden, dance hall hostess, and Helen Walsh, the youthful gunman's "girl," were with Crowley when police poured almost a thousand shots into their furnished apartment just off Riverside Drive.

With two revolvers in his hands, weapons which authorities say he took from victims of his hasty trigger action, the youth held off the blue coated besiegers for an hour while 10,000 persons looked on. Only after he had been wounded three times and his supply of ammunition had become exhausted did he quit.

At 10:30 A. M., a hastily assembled county grand jury returned an indictment against Crowley charging first degree murder for the brutal killing of Patrolman Fredrick Hirsch. The indictment was drawn up and signed by the jury foreman after the jurors had heard the story of the killer's sweetheart, 16-year-old Helen Walsh, captured with him in the mass police attack on their Manhattan apartment late yesterday. Arrangements were being made, before even the indictment was signed, to have the trial set down for a week from next Monday.

While the jury was in session arrangements were made to transfer Crowley from the Bellevue hospital in Manhattan, where he was taken after the capture to the Nassau county hospital at Mineola. Four armed men were to ride inside the ambulance with Crowley and it was to be preceded and followed by policemen in cars and on motorcycles.

The girl was taken to the Nassau jail last night and in an early morning conference with District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards, assured him that she would tell the whole story to the jurors and at the trial.

NATIONAL GUARD PATROLS STREETS

READY TO PUT DOWN ANY DIS-
ORDERS IN EVARTS,
KENTUCKY

Evarts, Ky., May 8. — (U.P.) — Miners and citizens went about their work today with national guardsmen patrolling the streets, ready to put down any disorders such as have claimed 12 lives and caused nearly all of the women to evacuate.

Nearly 400 officers and militiamen guarded the town in regular shifts, dispersing street gatherings and ordering loiterers to move on. The guardsmen were quartered in box cars and cabooses, under command of Colonel Dan Carrell.

An air of unrest prevailed among the "left wing" union miners, who resented the calling of the guardsmen, cavalry units, when Sheriff John Henry Blair and his deputies were unable to control the situation. Threats of violence were frequent and groups numbering as high as 1,000 men demonstrated here and at Harlan against the troops.

Col. Carrell said the riotous conditions seemed to have subsided and the

FIVE CHILDREN FATALLY HURT, 16 OTHERS SERIOUS

ENTIRE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY,
CALIF., APPALLED BY ACCIDENT

DRIVER FAILED TO SEE FREIGHT
APPROACHING, NORTH OF MERCED

Merced, Cal., May 8. — (U.P.) — Muriel Keller, 10, died today, raising the death toll to six for the grade crossing accident yesterday when a school bus was struck by a Santa Fe freight train.

Her death was caused by a fractured skull, sustained when the bus was splintered as it stopped on the tracks directly in front of the slow moving train.

Three children were killed instantly under the wheels of the freight and the Keller girl was the third to die of injuries.

Merced, Cal., May 8. — (U.P.) — The toll of dead and injured in a collision between a locomotive and a stage filled with 44 children continued to mount today with five fatalities, six probably fatally hurt and 16 others in a serious condition.

The entire San Joaquin valley was appalled by the accident, the worst grade crossing mishap in its history. A slow moving Santa Fe railroad engine struck the loaded bus, shunting the machine and its screaming occupants 50 feet down the tracks and then tossed them to one side.

Some of the children, all between 6 and 10 years old, were crushed inside the bus. Others were thrown under the trucks of the locomotive and the rest fell beside the tracks. Only 19 escaped with minor injuries.

Airplanes brought child specialists from San Francisco and today the physicians waged a desperate fight to save the most seriously injured.

The children killed were Roy and Dolores Epsom, 8-year-old twins, Jean Ahr, 10, Robert Fuller, 10, and Marshall Pintle, 8.

Among those not expected to live was J. B. Kregger, 50, driver of the bus. He was conscious for a few minutes after the crash. His only words were, "I did not see the train."

All the children lived in the Bear Creek agricultural section, north of Merced. They were homeward bound from school yesterday afternoon when the crash occurred.

The freight train, bound from Fresno to Riverbank, had slowed down for the crossing, Engineer George Parks and Conductor J. A. Holmes said, but the bus ran on to the tracks so quickly they could not stop.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wickland were in an automobile behind the closed bus as it started across the tracks. They said the bus did not stop for the crossing.

"I saw the train coming," Wickland said. "The children in the bus screamed. Then their cries were drowned out by the crash. The children were scattered along the tracks while others were trapped inside. It was horrible."

SALE OF GRAPE CONCENTRATES IS CHALLENGED

Kansas City, Mo., May 8. — (U.P.) — Thomas J. Layson, assistant United States district attorney, today filed formal charges of violating the national prohibition act against the Uklah Grape Products, Inc., of New York.

This was considered the first definite move in a test challenge of the legality of the sale of grape concentrates which may be fermented into wine.

The case is believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

The charge as filed does not call for grand jury action. The offense is considered a misdemeanor, punishable on the first offense by a maximum fine of $500.

FOREST FIRES ARE NOW UNDER CONTROL

St. Paul, Minn., May 8. — (U.P.) — Intermittent showers and cold weather enabled the state forestry department to bring all forest fires in northern Minnesota under control, A. F. Oppel, deputy state forester, said today.

A few blazes of minor nature are still smoldering but will be stamped out within a few days, it was said. Cloudy weather with not much change in temperature was predicted for tonight and tomorrow by the United States weather bureau today.

Traces of precipitation were recorded in many parts of the state today, the weather bureau said.

arrival of the guardsmen had had a quieting effect upon the disgruntled miners.

"Evarts is not under martial law," he said. "Personally I see no reason for such action at the present. Of course, if martial law is declared it will come from Governor Sampson."

He said he had noticed no overt acts since he arrived and was of the opinion citizens apparently wanted to cooperate with him in restoring order.

WHAT'S a frock without its jacket!
Nothing, in the opinion of fashion this season, as these gay little ensembles illustrate so cleverly.

A jacket makes a dinner dress out of an evening gown, a street costume out of a sports dress, a suit out of a printed frock. And you can reverse the order just as smartly of course!

In this special group you'll find jacket frocks of all descriptions . . . chiffons, crepes, prints . . . some with coats to match or in a twin print . . . some with coat to contrast . . . but all just as colorful as they can be!

Top left, matching jacket in a printed suit. Top right, contrasting jacket with short sleeves and flattering revers. Lower left, a brief bolero jacket worn over a frock in a darker hue. Lower right, twin prints in a chiffon evening ensemble.

MOTHERS DAY

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day. There's not exactly any need to get all worked up over it, but when Sunday's sun arises it'll make you feel doubly chesty to know that a little gift is all ready for her—won't it?

Small chance we'd have, indeed, of telling you what a swell girl your mother is, so we are only going to take the privilege of reminding you that you might just as well attend to that little token of love and reverence RIGHT NOW. Mother wouldn't want you to spend a lot of money on her, but she may feel just a little hurt (though you'd never know it) if you forgot her entirely.

So we urge again, even though you consider us quite a nuisance, choose your little remembrance now. DON'T DELAY. Stocks are complete in all stores.

Caring for Families in Need

THE cost of caring for families in need during 1930 in 100 American cities may be estimated at more than $40,000,000, according to a statement issued by the U. S. Children's Bureau. The reported expenditure, $39,397,480, is nearly double that of the previous year, when $20,891,726 was reported spent for family relief.

The $40,000,000 represents the cost of the major portion of relief given in the 100 cities but falls short of the entire bill owing to the omission of grants by agencies from which reports were not available. Sums expended by missions, municipal lodging houses, or other agencies providing individuals with temporary shelter or food are not included in the bill for family relief, nor was relief in the form of "made work" provided by emergency committees and charitable agencies included. Mothers' pensions or mothers' allowances usually given under the statutes to needy widows for the support of their children were also excluded, except in four cities, because such grants are not appreciably affected by economic changes. Expenditures by agencies giving relief to veterans only were likewise excluded.

These facts are revealed by a study of reports of public and private relief agencies assembled by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor for the President's Emergency Committee for Employment. The cities covered in the report include 40 cities of 50,000 to 100,000 and 60 of 100,000 and over. They form a representative American group, diverse in economic and industrial characteristics and of wide geographic distribution.

A significant fact shown by the reports is that public agencies—that is, those agencies supported by public taxes—are bearing an increasing proportion of the burden of relief. While the contributions from the public treasury are somewhat understated owing to the omission of mothers' aid and the fact that some private agencies derive funds from public sources—nevertheless, it was found that the major portion of the expense of caring for families in want was paid out of public funds.

The public shouldered an increasing share of the mounting costs of 1930 as compared to 1929. A comparison of relief given by public and private agencies, based on returns from 75 out of the 100 cities shows that 72 per cent of the amount given last year came from the public treasury. In 1929 the public agencies carried 60 per cent of the family relief burden. The exigencies of 1930 taxes the resources of private agencies to the utmost and in their rally to meet the need, these agencies raised 48 per cent more money than in the previous year. At the same time, the public departments extended their 1930 relief grants to a sum nearly 150 per cent greater than in the preceding year.

Washington's Love for His Mother

THE approach of "Mother's Day" with all of its tender significance to each individual turns the thoughts also to the great men of the world in history, and the tribute of love and honor the world owes to the mothers who guided their uncertain step through childhood and youth and brought them to fine upstanding manhood.

Of all the mothers of America we owe unflinching homage to the memory of Mary Hall Washington, the mother of our great national hero, for the sterling qualities she implanted in her son. Together they gave to the world a beautiful example of filial love and respect. While life lasted he gave his mother loving homage, respected her wishes, obeyed her commands, and did his best to gratify her requests. She shared his triumphs, his troubles and his disappointments.

No more beautiful picture can be found in the annals of history than is presented by the Peace Ball of Fredricksburg, Va., which General Washington attended with his frail and aging mother on his arm, garbed in her rich but simple black silk gown. Although she had never participated in the brilliant social functions of the courts of Europe, nor even the lesser gayeties of the large cities of America, she received the salutations of the elegant French generals with a poise and queenly dignity. So deep an impression did this Colonial Virginia mother make upon the distinguished Marquis de Lafayette, that before departing for his own land, he journeyed again to Fredricksburg, to bid her farewell and seek her blessing.

In the hour when General Washington received the news of his election to the Presidency of the new nation he had founded, he felt that he could not depart for New York to be inducted into office as its first President, until he had seen his mother. He traveled 60 miles to share his new honor with her, and to bid her farewell and get her blessing. He found her feeble in body and wracked with pain, but clear minded and full of loving thoughts for him. This was indeed farewell, as her death occurred four months later, August 25, 1789, and at a time when her son, the President, was himself ill and unable to attend her funeral.

She was laid to rest with all of the honors her townspeople could confer. Members of Congress wore the conventional mourning and orations and addresses sounded her virtues and her praise for many days.

MANY householders are painting up and the improvement is commendable. Some paint actually makes a house look "like a million dollars." The assessor has very kindly said, however, that paint will not increase his valuations.

THERE still remains a field for the education of people in the fire danger attending tossing lighted cigarettes on to streets or highways. The cigarette smolders and may set fire to a house or dry grass.

THE Twin Cities will be largely represented in the summer visitors to the Brainerd Lake Region. Camp Ripley will also bring many. Local hotels are receiving reservations from some of the officers.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest stirred the town of Kingcliffe. Walter Vance, Assistant Chief-of-Police, is in charge of the investigation, aided by his fiancée, "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter. A note, written by the Baroness, is found near the body. Bim recalls seeing the Baroness slip the butter a piece of paper, which she denies. Suspicion is cast on Mary Frost, whose husband, Ted, had flirted with the Baroness. Mary's shawl is found wrapped around the body. Mary claims she was unable to locate the shawl and left with Ted. It develops she returned later for the shawl. Complications arise when it is learned that Laura Allan had borrowed the shawl. Emily Hardy's maid heard the Baroness quarrel with her maid. Bim wonders about the wounds on the head and arm of the Baroness maid. The jewels of the Baroness have been stolen. Laura says she saw Mary entering the garden wearing her shawl. Bim finds a stone from a man's ring on the Summer house path. Laura denies wearing the shawl. Bim learns from the gardener that Bunny Baird was entertaining a lady in his bungalow. Bob Trent, gassed war veteran, tells the police the Baroness insulted his wife. Mrs. Trent is grief-stricken. Baird refuses to reveal the name of the lady who visited him.

CHAPTER XVII.

It was not until the finger-print expert, a hurried, bespectacled little man, had bustled through his report and then bustled away that Bim understood how much Walter had expected from his work and how disappointed he was when it yielded nothing.

Neither the wicker furnishings of the Summer house nor the rough-hewn saplings from which the building was constructed furnished the smooth surface upon which fingers easily leave their imprints and the leather bag, brought from the bottom of the ravine, was as clean of markings as if it had been scrubbed.

"Too bad," Reynolds remarked, wobbling his chins. "But not unusual."

"We might have cleaned up the whole thing today," Walter grumbled. "Now it's likely to take time."

Reynolds objected to this. "The killer never went inside the Summer house, son. You closed the windows yourself, didn't you? And at Walter's nod. The shooting was done from the garden, probably as the woman and her companion got up ready to leave. Or they might have heard a noise and got up; she fell on her side, which seems to indicate that she'd half turned around. Maybe she saw who it was and maybe she didn't, but that's what happened."

In the Dark

Bim could not suppress a squeal of protest. "But the person that was with her—the man—I thought—well, I thought he was the one!"

The two men laughed at her dismay and Walter shook his head. "He knows, though. A lot!"

"Well, who was he?" Bim persisted.

"Not Ted, because he went home with Mary, and not Bunny, because he went with Laura; and not Bob, nor the Count, nor Mr. Hardy. Who did the Baroness meet in the garden?"

"Check, Bim. Also whose tracks did we find back of the Summer house and where did the sheet come from and who spread it over the body? And why did the Baroness wear Mary Frost's shawl?"

"Maybe," said Bim slowly, "To confuse people. Maybe she wanted someone to think she was Mary Frost."

"Oh! Supposing someone did think so; who's got a grudge against Mary Frost?"

"No one in the world, Wally, Mary's the most beloved woman."

"She says, 'Good evenin', Charles'tryin' to make it sound regular."

"You're both forgetting," Reynolds put in. "The missing jewels."

Fred Burke appeared at this moment to report that the search carried on by another policeman and himself for the death gun had been fruitless. They had combed the house and the garden and the woods outside, scrambling up and down the ravine and even flanking the beach at the foot of Eagle's Nest but with no result. Should they, Fred Burke asked, keep on?

Taking the man aside, Walter gave certain instructions and Burke dashed away in some excitement, though Walter looked glum over the failure to find the gun.

As a matter of fact it never was found since it lay at that moment and doubtless forever after—in the slime at the bottom of the river.

Prophetic Words

There was nothing more to be done at Eagle's Nest for the time being and Walter decided to return to the station house, there to talk things over with old Jer Fury before going home for a few hours' sleep. Bim urged her father's flivver upon him.

"Take Mr. Reynolds with you, Wally, and I'll walk. I can think better walking."

"We'll crowd you in between us," Reynolds offered, eyeing the tiny little car doubtfully. "Or maybe you'd sit on my lap?"

"You haven't any lap," Bim giggled. "Nope; I'm going to walk. You never can tell what a wick'll turn up."

Her words were prophetic, as it happened. The flivver chuffed out of sight as she left Lowland Drive for King Highway, the residential street through the eastern end of the town parallel with the river, when she was hailed from a car which drew invitingly to the curb, waiting for her there.

The car was one of the town's two taxis and belonged to Charlie Perrone who was driving it and who seemed eager for a bit of gossip as Bim settled herself at his side and they proceeded toward the village.

"Was quite a time they had up on the hill last night," Charlie began with a pleased grin. "What'd they do—bust up in a row or somethin'?"

"A row, Charlie? What do you mean?" Bim wondered if the story of the murder had percolated into the village in spite of their attempts to keep it quiet.

"Aw, nothin'; I was only askin' that was all. I kinda wondered when I seen Miss Frost goin' home by herself. Thought maybe she had a run-in with her old man."

Bim wanted to bombard him with questions but the events of the morning had taught her caution; she realized that she would learn nothing by showing interest. So she nodded her pale head in a wise way and looked as knowing as she could and Perrone was encouraged to add, "She was cryin'!"

"Poor Mary," murmured Bim.

"Yeh. That's what I hinks when I pulls up and she says, 'Good evenin', Charles,' tryin' to make it sound regular. But I was watchin' her in the mirror goin' up the hill and she was cryin', all right. So I figures prob'ly she'd had another set-to with the boss."

"Well, you know how Ted is," Bim conceded. "Did she say ne'd gone and left her?"

"That what he done? Naw; she didn't say nothin', just kinda shivered like she was cold and cried. And it ain't so warm at that up there around midnight."

Little by Little

"Was it midnight, Charlie?"

"Musta been close to. I started right out soon's I got the call but you know how it is; folks droppin' in to be took home and this and that. I gets up there maybe in ten minutes and went 't turn in when I seen her standin' by the gate."

"Did she call you herself?"

"Hey, what is this, thoid degree?"

"Don't be dumb, Charlie. You're asking me and I'm asking you."

"Yeh? Sure she called me herself—who else?"

"It might have been the butler or—Mrs. Hardy."

"Haw; way she was actin', I guess she wanted to keep it on the quiet. Say," he burst out eagerly, "they wasn't nothin' big goin' on, was they? No heads punched—nothin' like that?"

"Of course not," Bim laughed. "And Charlie," she added, as she stooped to let her out, "keep it to yourself—what you know about Mary—will you? There's a reason."

"Sure," he nodded. "No one never heard me tell nothin'. You gotta keep your face shut in the hackin' business. S'long."

Bim waved and started off toward the station house. She had no illusions about Charlie Perrone's discretion. He knew more than everyone in town put together about the secret places in the lives of Kingcliffe citizens, and he told most of what he knew. But in a few hours the Banner would be on the street, and then Charlie Perrone would understand just how 'big' was that which had gone on at Eagle's Nest last night. His lips would be sealed.

In the meantime Bim had something to tell the police—something which would shatter the carefully contrived story of Mary and Ted Frost.

Caring for Families in Need

THE cost of caring for families in need during 1930 in 100 American cities may be estimated at more than $40,000,000, according to a statement issued by the U. S. Children's Bureau. The reported expenditure, $39,397,480, is nearly double that of the previous year, when $20,891,726 was reported spent for family relief.

The $40,000,000 represents the cost of the major portion of relief given in the 100 cities but falls short of the entire bill owing to the omission of grants by agencies from which reports were not available. Sums expended by missions, municipal lodging houses, or other agencies providing individuals with temporary shelter or food are not included in the bill for family relief, nor was relief in the form of "made work" provided by emergency committees and charitable agencies included. Mothers' pensions or mothers' allowances usually given under the statutes to needy widows for the support of their children were also excluded, except in four cities, because such grants are not appreciably affected by economic changes. Expenditures by agencies giving relief to veterans only were likewise excluded.

These facts are revealed by a study of reports of public and private relief agencies assembled by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor for the President's Emergency Committee for Employment. The cities covered in the report include 40 cities of 50,000 to 100,000 and 60 of 100,000 and over. They form a representative American group, diverse in economic and industrial characteristics and of wide geographic distribution.

A significant fact shown by the reports is that public agencies—that is, those agencies supported by public taxes—are bearing an increasing proportion of the burden of relief. While the contributions from the public treasury are somewhat understated owing to the omission of mothers' aid and the fact that some private agencies derive funds from public sources—nevertheless, it was found that the major portion of the expense of caring for families in want was paid out of public funds.

The public shouldered an increasing share of the mounting costs of 1930 as compared to 1929. A comparison of relief given by public and private agencies, based on returns from 75 out of the 100 cities shows that 72 per cent of the amount given last year came from the public treasury. In 1929 the public agencies carried 60 per cent of the family relief burden. The exigencies of 1930 taxes the resources of private agencies to the utmost and in their rally to meet the need, these agencies raised 48 per cent more money than in the previous year. At the same time, the public departments extended their 1930 relief grants to a sum nearly 150 per cent greater than in the preceding year.

Washington's Love for His Mother

THE approach of "Mother's Day" with all of its tender significance to each individual turns the thoughts also to the great men of the world in history, and the tribute of love and honor the world owes to the mothers who guided their uncertain step through childhood and youth and brought them to fine upstanding manhood.

Of all the mothers of America we owe unfailing homage to the memory of Mary Hall Washington, the mother of our great national hero, for the sterling qualities she implanted in her son. Together they gave to the world a beautiful example of filial love and respect. While life lasted he gave his mother loving homage, respected her wishes, obeyed her commands, and did his best to gratify her requests. She shared his triumphs, his troubles and his disappointments.

No more beautiful picture can be found in the annals of history than is presented by the Peace Ball of Fredericksburg, Va., which General Washington attended with his frail and aging mother on his arm, garbed in her rich but simple black silk gown. Although she had never participated in the brilliant social functions of the courts of Europe, nor even the lesser gayeties of the large cities of America, she received the salutations of the elegant French generals with a poise and queenly dignity. So deep an impression did this Colonial Virginia mother make upon the distinguished Marquis de Lafayette, that before departing for his own land, he journeyed again to Fredericksburg, to bid her farewell and seek her blessing.

In the hour when General Washington received the news of his election to the Presidency of the new nation he had founded, he felt that he could not depart for New York to be inducted into office as its first President, until he had seen his mother. He traveled 60 miles to share his new honor with her, and to bid her farewell and get her blessing. He found her feeble in body and wracked with pain, but clear minded and full of loving thoughts for him. This was indeed farewell, as her death occurred four months later, August 25, 1789, and at a time when her son, the President, was himself ill and unable to attend her funeral.

She was laid to rest with all of the honors her townspeople could confer. Members of Congress wore the conventional mourning and orations sounded her virtues and her praise for many days.

MANY householders are painting up and the improvement is commendable. Some paint actually makes a house look "like a million dollars." The assessor has very kindly said, however, that paint will not increase his valuations.

THERE still remains a field for the education of people in the fire danger attending tossing lighted cigarettes on to streets or highways. The cigarette smolders and may set fire to a house or dry grass.

THE Twin Cities will be largely represented in the summer visitors to the Brainerd Lake Region. Camp Ripley will also bring many. Local hotels are receiving reservations from some of the officers.

THE district forest ranger will shortly commence prosecution of some 14 cases in which persons are charged with unauthorized burning.

A MILK ordinance requiring pasteurization and special handling of bottles became effective in Pier last month.

COLD weather and rains are interfering with the schedules of the major leagues.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest stirred the town of Kingcliffe. Walter Vance, Assistant Chief of Police, in charge of the investigation, asked by his fiancée, "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter, a note written by the Baroness, is found near the body. Bim recalls seeing the Baroness slip the butler a piece of paper, which he denies. Suspicion is cast on Mary Frost, whose husband, Ted, had flirted with the Baroness. Mary's shawl is found wrapped around the body. Mary claims she was unable to locate the shawl and left with Ted. It develops she returned later for the shawl. Complications arise when it is learned that Laura Allan had borrowed the shawl. Emily Hardy's maid heard the Baroness quarrel with her maid. Bim wonders about the wounds on the head and arm of the Baroness' maid. The jewels of the Baroness have been stolen. Laura says she saw Mary entering the garden wearing her shawl. Bim finds a stone from a man's ring on the Summer house path. Laura denies wearing the shawl. Bim learns from the gardener that Bunny Baird was entertaining a lady in his bungalow. Bob Trent, gassed war veteran, tells the police the Baroness insulted his wife. Mrs. Trent is fear-stricken. Baird refuses to reveal the name of the lady who visited him.

CHAPTER XVII.

It was not until the finger-print expert, a hurried, bespectacled little man, had hustled through his report and then hustled away that Bim understood how much Walter had expected from his work and how disappointed he was when it yielded nothing.

Neither the wicker furnishings of the Summer house nor the rough-hewn saplings from which the building was constructed furnished the smooth surface upon which fingers easily leave their imprints and the leather bag, brought from the bottom of the ravine, was as clean of markings as if it had been scrubbed.

"Too bad," Reynolds remarked, wobbling his chins. "But not unusual."

"We might have cleaned up the whole thing today," Walter grumbled. "Now it's likely to take time."

Reynolds objected to this. "The killer never went inside the Summer house, son. You closed the windows, yourself, didn't you?" And at Walter's nod, "The shooting was done from the garden, probably as the woman and her companion got up ready to leave. Or they might have heard a noise and got up; she fell on her side, which seems to indicate that she'd half turned around. Maybe she saw who it was and maybe she didn't, but that's what happened."

In the Dark

Bim could not suppress a squeal of protest. "But the person that was with her—the man—I thought—well, I thought he was the one!"

The two men laughed at her dismay and Walter shook his head. "He knows, though. A lot!"

"Well, who was he?" Bim persisted. "Not Ted, because he went home with Mary, and not Bunny, because he went with Laura and not Bob, nor the Count, nor Mr. Hardy. Who did the Baroness meet in the garden?"

"Check, Bim. Also whose tracks did we find back of the Summer house and where did the sheet come from and who spread it over the body? And why did the Baroness wear Mary Frost's shawl?"

"Maybe," said Bim slowly, "To confuse people. Maybe she wanted someone to think she was Mary Frost."

"Oh! Supposing someone did think so; who's got a grudge against Mary Frost?"

"No one in the world, Wally. Mary's the most beloved woman."

"She says, 'Good evenin', Charles tryin' to make it sound regular.'"

"You're both forgetting," Reynolds put in. "The missing jewels."

Fred Burke appeared at this moment to report that the search carried on by another policeman and himself for the death gun had been fruitless. They had combed the house and the garden and the woods outside, scrambling up and down the ravine and even inspecting the beach at the foot of Eagle's Nest but with no result. Should they, Fred Burke asked, keep on?

Taking the man aside, Walter gave certain instructions and Burke dashed away in some excitement, though Walter looked glum over the failure to find the gun. As a matter of fact it never was found since it lay at that moment—and doubtless forever after—in the slime at the bottom of the river.

Prophetic Words

There was nothing more to be done at Eagle's Nest for the time being and Walter decided to return to the station house, there to talk things over with old Jer Furey before going home for a few hours' sleep. Bim urged her father's flivver upon him.

"Take Mr. Reynolds with you, Wally, and I'll walk. I can think better walking."

"We'll crowd you in between us," Reynolds offered, eyeing the tiny little car doubtfully. "Or maybe you'd sit on my lap." "You haven't any lap," Bim giggled. "None, I'm going to walk. You never can tell what a walk will turn up."

Her words were prophetic, as it happened. The flivver chuffed out of sight as she left Lowland Drive for King Highway, the residential street through the eastern end of the town parallel with the river, when she was hailed from a car which drew invitingly to the curb, waiting for her there.

The car was one of the town's two taxis and belonged to Charlie Perrone who was driving it and who seemed eager for a bit of gossip as Bim settled herself at his side and they proceeded toward the village.

"Was quite a time they had up on the Hill last night," Charlie began with a pleased grin. "What'd they do—bust up in a row or somethin'?"

"A row, Charlie? What do you mean?" Bim wondered if the story of the murder had percolated into the village in spite of their attempts to keep it quiet.

"Aw, nothin'; I was only askin' that was all. I kinda wondered when I seen Miss Frost goin' home by herself. Thought maybe she had a run-in with her old man."

Bim wanted to bombard him with questions but the events of the morning had taught her caution; she realized that she would learn nothing by showing interest. So she nodded her pale head in a wise way and looked as knowing as she could and Perrone was encouraged to add, "She was cryin'." "Poor Mary," murmured Bim.

"Yeh. That's what I hinks when I pulls up and she says, 'Good evenin', Charles, tryin' to make it sound regular. But I was watchin' her in the mirror goin' up the hill and she was cryin', all right. So I figures prob'ly she'd had another set to with the boss.'"

"Well, you know how Ted is," Bim conceded. "Did she say he'd gone and left her?"

"That what he done? Naw; she didn't say nothin', just kinda shivered like she was cold and cried. And it ain't so warm at that up there around midnight."

Little by Little

"Was it midnight, Charlie?" "Musta been close to it. I started right out soon's I got the call but you know how it is; folks droppin' in to be took home and this and that. I gets up there maybe in ten minutes and went 't turn in when I seen her standin' by the gate."

"Did she call you herself?" "Yeh, what is this, thoid degree?"

"Don't be dumb, Charlie. You're asking me and I'm asking you."

"Yeh? Sure she called me herself—'who else?'"

"It might have been the butler or—Mr. Hardy."

"How; was she was actin', I guess she wanted to keep it on the quiet. Say," he burst out eagerly, "They wasn't nothin' big goin' on, was they? No heads punched—nothin' like that?"

JACK 'KID' BERG MEETS HERRERA IN BOUT AT GARDEN

THE FANS

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 8.—Jack (Kid) Berg, the most capable and popular British fighter who has invaded America during recent years, returns to the New York ring tonight in a bout which he hopes will prove a stepping stone back to the heights of greatness he enjoyed prior to his recent knockout by Lightweight Champion Tony Canzoneri.

Berg is scheduled for ten rounds, or less, with Tony Herrera of Mexico, at Madison Square Garden, and strange to relate boxing fans appear to believe a close and interesting battle will result.

A month ago, a meeting of Berg and Herrera, a comparative novice, would have been regarded as a mismatch. Now, the bout is attracting wide attention and many close students of fight affairs considered the Mexican a good bet on the short end of the prevailing 8 to 5 odds.

Berg, who until his astounding knockout by Canzoneri, was regarded as the outstanding contender for the lightweight and welterweight championships, is reputed to be "washed up" — although there are no good grounds for this suspicion.

The rugged little Whitechapel whirlwind may have lost some of his energy in two years of fighting but there is little doubt that he is one of the best men of his size that the ring has produced, and he could slip fifty per cent and still rate over Herrera. Jackie should win decisively as a title contender with an opportunity to reverse the decision in a return match with Canzoneri.

Herrera is far from a "set up" for any lightweight, but he still is a comparative novice and at least a year removed from championship class. He is strictly a right hand puncher and does his best work against a slow moving target. The rushing, mauling Berg is the type of fighter who can make him look bad, and should do so, although Herrera will be dangerous as long as he can lift his right hand.

The Berg-Herrera bout marks the resumption of boxing at Madison Square Garden after a six-week lay-off. It will be supported by a strong preliminary card including a ten-round bout between Tony Tozzo of Buffalo, brother of former Lightweight Champion Rocky Kansas, and Vincent Sireci of New Jersey; a ten-round featuring Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., and Ignacio Ara of Spain; and the usual six and four round appetizers.

2 DAYS' REST CAUSED BY BAD
WEATHER FAILS TO AID
COLONELS

(By United Press)

Two days of rest enforced by weather conditions failed to revive the slipping Louisville Colonels, and today they were deep in the American Association second place.

St. Paul, meanwhile, has continued its drive which put the Saints well out ahead of the 1930 champion Louisville team, reversing the positions of the two clubs in short order.

The Saints took a 1 to 0 decision from Columbus yesterday behind the sterling mound work of Betts. Not a man crossed the plate until the last half of the ninth inning.

Louisville lost to Kansas City, also by a one-run margin. The Kansas City batters bombarded four Colonels pitchers hard to win, 6 to 5. The Blues did all their scoring in the first four innings, and despite four errors, managed to hold the lead.

The Toledo-Minneapolis and Indianapolis-Milwaukee games were postponed because of cold weather and wet grounds.

Today's schedule:
Louisville at Kansas City.
Indianapolis at Milwaukee.
Columbus at St. Paul.
Toledo at Minneapolis.

SURVEY

Louisville, K. Y., May 8.—(U.P.)—A field of 17 starters—the country's outstanding three-year-olds—loomed as a certainty today for the fifty-seventh annual running of the Kentucky Derby May 16.

The arrival of William Biegler's Ilium and word that Equipoise, Nate, Twenty Grand, Surf Board, Morstone, Ladder and Aegis would be shipped early next week swelled the prospective field beyond early expectations.

Cold weather and a heavy track kept the derby eligibles from working out yesterday on Churchill Downs but they will compete in a special one-mile race today. The winner of this event, and the victor in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday, probably will go to the barrier joint favorites to capture derby honors.

The probable field, together with the riders, follows:

Twenty Grand—C. Hartsinger.
Surf Board—L. Mactee.
Equipoise—R. Workman or A. Robertson.

Going on a batting spree in the fifth inning, the Thompson Oilers battered "Cannonball" Werner, Ward pitcher, for five home runs and scored eight runs to completely demoralize the Ward team and sail to an easy victory.

Both pitchers were hit freely but Werner was hit by far the harder after his arm failed in the fourth inning. A number of misjudged flies counted for several of the Oilers' circuit drives.

"Pesky" DeRoche, Ward backstop, was back in the lineup for a short time last night after being out with a broken finger for some time. He aggravated the injury again last night and Trask and Nelson also caught the offerings of Werner.

Johnson and "Swan" Erickson formed the Oilers' battery.

A crowd of about 100 saw the game. Officials were Foster and Ford.

Chevrolet

in motor-car styling

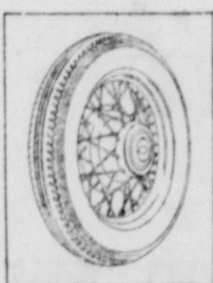

Chevrolet's front-end ensemble is a fine example of the latest trend in modern design

Many factors have contributed to the remarkably wide-spread popularity of the new Chevrolet Six. Among these are smooth performance, low price, matchless economy, exceptional riding ease and driving comfort. But no feature has been more strikingly evident in the enthusiastic public reception of the car than its smart new style.

Fisher Body craftsmen, with their background of fine-car designing, have made this new Chevrolet an exceptionally attractive automobile. Study it from any angle and you find it extremely pleasing. Look at it from the front and you are impressed by the modish ensemble of deep radiator, large headlamps and arched tie bar—all gleaming in rich chromium plate. Viewed from the side, the long hood, low-slung body lines, sweeping fenders and massive wire wheels strikingly suggest the car's fleetness and power. And the appeal of Chevrolet's beauty is made more pronounced by the fact that all models are available in a variety of colors.

Interiors, too, are unusual in every way. The upholstery is carefully tailored. Seats are roomy, deeply cushioned and invitingly soft. And the interiors are tastefully appointed.

An important factor in Chevrolet's smart appearance is the de-luxe wire wheels with forty steel spokes and massive chrome-plated hub caps

In fact, the new Chevrolet Six is such a thoroughly fine-looking automobile that it has become a very popular choice with every type of buyer. You find it not only the smart family car, but the smart personal car as well—a worthy companion to the expensive automobiles of the two- and three-car household.

FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN

This New Plan Lets Every Responsible Corn
Grower Pay for His Farmall with Just a Part of the Savings the Farmall Will Make

ABUNDANT evidence in the form of actual cost records proves that farmers using Farmall tractors and full Farmall equipment are producing corn for from one-half to one-third the government average for farms with similar yields, the average saving amounting to 27½ cents a bushel.

We are so confident that the majority of farmers can get proportionate results with the Farmall that we are announcing the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN, under which responsible farmers can purchase a Farmall and Farmall equipment now and meet the first payment this fall with just a part of the savings made possible by the new equipment in the production of their corn crop—with two more years to pay the balance.

Here is an opportunity for you to take advantage of Farmall savings during the balance of the corn growing and harvesting season—planting from 20 to 45 acres a day and cultivating 30 to 65 acres a day with 2- or 4-row equipment—and be ready next year to make the maximum saving throughout the entire year. And don't overlook the extra savings you will make in the handling of your hay, grain, and all other crops requiring power.

Every one of these jobs can be done faster and at lower costs with a Farmall and Farmall equipment, effecting substantial savings on every crop, yet all you pay is part of the savings made on the corn alone as a first payment this fall.

See your McCormick-Deering dealer for full details of the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN. A convincing demonstration of the Farmall and seasonable equipment will be made on your own farm on request.

In fact, the new Chevrolet Six is such a thoroughly fine-looking automobile that it has become a very popular choice with every type of buyer. You find it not only the smart family car, but the smart personal car as well—a worthy companion to the expensive automobiles of the two- and three-car household.

An important factor in Chevrolet's smart appearance is the de-luxe wire wheels with forty steel spokes and massive chrome-plated hub caps.

FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN

This New Plan Lets Every Responsible Corn Grower Pay for His Farmall with Just a Part of the Savings the Farmall Will Make

ABUNDANT evidence in the form of actual cost records proves that farmers using Farmall tractors and full Farmall equipment are producing corn for from one-half to one-third the government average for farms with similar yields, the average saving amounting to 27½ cents a bushel.

We are so confident that the majority of farmers can get proportionate results with the Farmall that we are announcing the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN, under which responsible farmers can purchase a Farmall and Farmall equipment now and meet the first payment this fall with just a part of the savings made possible by the new equipment in the production of their corn crop—with two more years to pay the balance.

Here is an opportunity for you to take advantage of Farmall savings during the balance of the corn growing and harvesting season—planting from 20 to 45 acres a day and cultivating 30 to 65 acres a day with 2- or 4-row equipment—and be ready next year to make the maximum saving throughout the entire year. And don't overlook the extra savings you will make in the handling of your hay, grain, and all other crops requiring power.

Every one of these jobs can be done faster and at lower costs with a Farmall and Farmall equipment, effecting substantial savings on every crop, yet all you pay is part of the savings made on the corn alone as a first payment this fall.

See your McCormick-Deering dealer for full details of the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN. A convincing demonstration of the Farmall and seasonable equipment will be made on your own farm on request.

USE OF LIQUOR IS DECREASING, SAYS VOLSTEAD

FORMERLY PROSPEROUS BOOT-
LEGGERS TODAY MAKING
ONLY BARE LIVING

AUTHOR OF NATIONAL ENFORCE-MENT ACT ADDRESSES W. C.
T. U. MEETING

Owatonna, Minn., May 8.—(UP)—Use of liquor has so decreased that the formerly prosperous bootleggers today are making only a bare living, Andrew J. Volstead, author of the national enforcement act, told delegates attending the annual convention of the first district Women's Christian Temperance Union.

"With my opportunity to study the history of prohibition and with facts and figures available, there seems to me little room for doubt or argument but that enforcement is getting better each year," Volstead said.

"There is today nothing like the sale of liquor there was three years ago. Bootleggers, formerly prosperous are making a bare living with but few exceptions. We are making progress."

Another speaker at the convention today was M. L. Harney, federal prohibition administrator for the Minnesota district. He said that liquor from Wisconsin is the chief reason that enforcement in Minnesota is not more nearly perfect.

Volstead agreed with Harney in a statement in which he said that liquor conditions are being improved steadily in Minnesota.

"Do not become discouraged in the face of propaganda aimed to dash us from the fruits of victory," Volstead said. "Every effort possible is being made by the wet interests and huge sums of money, provided by those who hope to profit from repeal, are being spent to carry to the public the ideas that prohibition is a failure."

"We know what is behind it. All of us of sufficient age can recall the degrading conditions which existed before the eighteenth amendment and the bitter struggle necessary to correct those evils."

"Those most deeply engaged and interested in that fight, which brought us victory, foresaw at the time of our success that continued and desperate efforts would be made by the wets and that much of the battle was still before us."

Repeal of state enforcement laws in Wisconsin, Harney said, are responsible for "great quantities of bootleg liquor, much of which finds its way to Minnesota."

"Minnesota's big trouble," Harney said, "is the proximity of Wisconsin and its rather rowdy neighborliness and repealed enforcement laws, the source of 90 per cent of the bootleg liquor which reaches Minnesota, masquerading as various types of more respectable liquor."

"That situation offers proof of the impossibility of the ideas of local option. Present highly developed means of communication make it impossible to have prohibition in one locality and legalized liquor only a few miles away—with a paved road to haul it on."

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features
Syndicate, Inc.

Mrs. Palo Alto, California: I still stick to that statement. If so called love can wait with absolute patience, meanwhile neglecting the loved one, it is not love. If it seemingly can't wait, demands all attention and quick marriage as if it were a right. But, when it can't have its way, continues to wait and to love, it's real love. You get the difference, don't you? In other words, the woman who says her sweetheart says he can wait for her for years but neglects her and goes out with other women, would be silly to think him very much in love. It's not patience he is showing, it's a decided lack of interest. He not only can and will wait, but wouldn't do anything else, for the world, and when the time is up—two years in the case you mention—he will find another excuse for "waiting patiently."

Love is impatient. It acts that way and is in constant attendance upon the loved one. Men and boys who neglect the object of their alleged affections aren't in love. Forgetfulness and neglect don't go with love. They are complete strangers.

Of course, Mrs. Palo Alto, I do recommend "saving the sinking ship" when a couple have married and have had slight misunderstandings. If you come to an impasse before marriage, you can step out without much trouble. But there are all sorts of prejudices, heartaches, readjustments, embarrassments, and bitter tears that go with separations and divorce. I think married people should do everything in their power to avoid them. It may sound easy but divorce is the most difficult thing imaginable.

So many young people do not take into consideration the fact that all married life has occasional little jars. It's not so difficult to be courted and wish you had each other always and be held back because of lack of finances or for any other reason. It seems then as if there could never be any disagreement of any sort, once you were married.

But after all, you are two humans, and marriage doesn't completely make you over. It merely makes it more difficult for you to attain perfect peace and understanding. It can be done, that's the interesting thing about it, and it's an experiment in which any one who loves enough to marry, should be interested.

Miss S. P.: If you have been engaged a year and the man walked out on his dinner date with you, it's time you quit.

I was surprised at your letter. You say: "I had a dinner date with him and waited almost an hour and then went to his home to see where he was. I thought in the excitement (he was moving that day) that he had forgotten the engagement. The housekeeper told me he had been looking forward to this date all week."

You shouldn't spy on a man and you shouldn't query the servants about him. I don't like your going to his house after him.

You continue: "To make a long story short, he didn't show up all evening, and the next day I called him and he hung up on me."

Then you went to his office and he told you to leave! What a glutton for punishment you are!

That is making a long story short. Why didn't you wait until he phoned you? Oh, these women! I had a brother to whom the girls used to phone incessantly, and he would call downstairs and tell me to say he wasn't there. I always wondered how the girls could reason that the phoning got them anywhere, because I knew that it hadn't. Men like to seek out the girl they care for, not hear her voice every time they pick up the phone receiver.

You say you followed my advice and bought a hat and it didn't help. You went out with other boys and it didn't help. You only wore the hat once and went dancing a couple of times and you thought it would work as magic works. You say that you suppose I think you ought to hate him. Why? After a while you will see how nice it is you were not married to him.

But the next time you fall in love, don't go to the man's home to spy on him, don't go to his office to call him to account for his actions and keep off the phone. You've worn the romance out with persistence. To make men behave you have to keep them interested as you do children.

California Wife: Let your husband run his business, and you run your home. If he doesn't provide enough and it gets too bad you can go to law about it. But women should keep out of courts as long as possible. It's terrible for children to have their home tragedies aired in a public court. Get some friend to intercede first. Someone you both like. Try everything else first and the law court last.

Mr. X.: Yes, nice girls smoke. Sometimes girls who take a drink are nice. If a girl has a "weakness for drink" she should let it alone, but such people are often difficult to manage. Yes, Mr. X., I'm sorry to say so and rock your ideals, but women who smoke do make good mothers. In other words, their smoking hasn't anything to do with the kind of mothers they make. If you don't want the women in your home to smoke, that's your problem and you will have to create the desire to do as you wish before you can stop them.

I don't happen to smoke, but I know plenty of women who do, and I am being honest in answering you.

MILK SHOULD BE ADDED TO WAFFLE BATTER GRADUALLY

This Method Insures a Smooth,
Light, Lumpless Batter

Every cook knows that it is risky to pour all the milk at once into the flour when making waffles. In spite of vigorous stirring the batter will invariably contain lumps.

Coffee roasted in bulk also involves risk. Even the most skilled operator cannot prevent variation in the roast because the quantity is too large to handle. As a result, some of the coffee berries are overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes variation in flavor.

Realizing this, Hills Bros., in San Francisco, perfected and patented a process that roasts every coffee berry evenly. By automatic control, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters in which heat is also automatically controlled. When the coffee finally leaves the roasters, it is perfectly uniform in color and roast and gives a delicious flavor in the cup that no other coffee can equal.

No matter when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh and complete in its exclusive flavor and aroma as when it came from the roasters. This is because Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum—a process that takes air, which destroys coffee flavor, from the can. The ordinary air-tight can does not keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

CONDITION OF FUNDS SHOWN

City Will Ride Through Year Without
Worry if Platform
Continues

A list of funds in the city treasury as of May 5 has been supplied City Treasurer George A. Tracy by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk.

These funds total $58,455.37. The city received in its March settlement from the county $16,125.00 which has been applied and is included in these funds.

The total amount which the city will receive from 1930 taxes provided all taxes are paid will be $77,671.70. Approximately this figure will have been turned over to the city in the March, August and December settlements this year.

These figures attest to the economical method of operation of the city by the city council, and reveal that without any unforeseen appropriation the city's finances will be in creditable shape to conduct affairs during the year, considering the fact that no major improvements are contemplated.

Funds as they existed when Mrs. Fleener provided Mr. Tracy with the list are shown in the following:

| Fund | Balance |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| General | $ 2,895.05 |
| Public Property | 168.66 |
| Public Safety | 1,260.55 |
| Street and Sewer | 5,461.53 |
| Poor | 1,257.74 |
| Contingent | 300.08 |
| Public Utility | 37,168.44 |
| Park | 1,340.38 |
| Library | 915.86 |

| Music | 292.28 |
| Revolving | 2,940.27 |
| Permanent Improvement | 3,076.33 |

Total $58,455.37
Appropriations to the city from the 1930 taxes collectible this year and divided into the three settlements, provided all taxes are paid, are furnished as follows by the County Auditor's office:

| Fund | Amount |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| Bond Interest | $ 6,152.21 |

RESERVE ATTESTS TO CITY ECONOMY

Tax Payers Fortunate in Having V.
F. Anderson Head of Finance Committee

CONDITION OF FUNDS SHOWN

City Will Ride Through Year Without
Worry if Platform
Continues

A list of funds in the city treasury as of May 5 has been supplied City Treasurer George A. Tracy by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk.

These funds total $58,455.37. The city received in its March settlement from the county $16,125.00 which has been applied and is included in these funds.

The total amount which the city will receive from 1930 taxes provided all taxes are paid will be $77,671.70. Approximately this figure will have been turned over to the city in the March, August and December settlements this year.

These figures attest to the economical method of operation of the city by the city council, and reveal that without any unforeseen appropriation the city's finances will be in creditable shape to conduct affairs during the year, considering the fact that no major improvements are contemplated.

Funds as they existed when Mrs. Fleener provided Mr. Tracy with the list are shown in the following:

| Fund | Balance |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| General | $ 2,898.05 |
| Public Property | 168.66 |
| Public Safety | 1,260.55 |
| Street and Sewer | 5,491.53 |
| Poor | 1,257.74 |
| Contingent | 300.08 |
| Public Utility | 37,168.44 |
| Park | 1,340.58 |
| Library | 915.66 |
| Bond Interest | 1,155.47 |
| Musical | 292.28 |
| Revolving | 2,940.27 |
| Permanent Improvement | 3,076.33 |
| Emergency | 189.93 |

Total $58,455.37

Appropriations to the city from the 1930 taxes collectible this year and divided into the three settlements, provided all taxes are paid, are furnished as follows by the County Auditor's office:

| Fund | Amount |
|-----------------------|-------------|
| Bond Interest | $ 6,152.21 |
| Sinking | 6,152.21 |
| Public Safety | 22,801.78 |
| Library | 3,076.11 |
| Park | 2,307.68 |
| Poor | 3,076.11 |
| Street and Sewer | 12,304.43 |
| Permanent Improvement | 9,228.32 |
| Musical | 1,538.05 |
| Hydrant Rental, etc. | 9,228.32 |
| General | 2,307.08 |

Total $77,671.70

The important committee to which planning of these funds and distribution of the same for the successful operation of the city is the finance committee of which Alderman V. F. Anderson is chairman.

That Mr. Anderson has the capable financial mind to handle such business has already been successfully proven. It appears that he will be the first and only consideration for the post when President V. E. Quastrom announces his committee appointments at the next meeting of the city council.

ARREST BRAINERD MAN IN GANG WORK

Prisoner Gives Name of George Walters, Said to be One of Three Looting Stores

CAPTURED AT MILL CITY

75 Suits Said to Have Been Stolen From Pine Island General Store Found in Car

A man who gave his name as George Walters, Brainerd, was under arrest today as one of three men in a gang said to have been looting stores in the vicinity of the Twin Cities.

His alleged accomplice, B. A. Fischer, Osseo, was also captured. The third member and reported leader was said by United Press dispatches to have fled Minneapolis. Arrest followed the alleged looting of the Pine Island General Store of 75 suits of clothing which were recovered in the car the two were riding in when stopped by a policeman in South Minneapolis. They have been taken to Red Wing for arraignment. Pine Island is a town of 934 population in Goodhue county.

Minneapolis, May 8.—(U.P.)—A police radio broadcast today enabled Patrolman Ben Phillips to capture two men suspected of robbing the Pine Island General Store of 75 suits of clothing. The men gave their names as George Walters, Brainerd and B. A. Fischer, Osseo.

Sheriff Lemus Olson and County Attorney Theodore M. Ostedahl of Red Wing came to Minneapolis and took Walters and Fischer to Red Wing for arraignment.

The two were said by police to have implicated a third man as a fence and leader for the gang. Police said the arrest would clear up a number of similar store robberies in the vicinity of the Twin Cities.

When police raided an apartment in a Loop hotel where the third member of the gang was reported staying, they found the room empty. The man sought was believed to have fled from the Twin Cities.

Twin City authorities were warned to be on the lookout for the pair today when it was discovered the store had been broken into during the night. Several persons said they saw two men driving a heavily laden automobile toward Minneapolis last night.

A description of the automobile was sent out over the police radio station and Phillips apprehended two men in South Minneapolis because their automobile fitted the description.

Investigating revealed 75 suits of clothing in the automobile.

STAY OF SENTENCE GRANTED ROBBINS

Minneapolis, May 8.—(U.P.)—A stay of sentence until June 8 was granted today to Albert A. Robbins, president of the defunct Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms, Inc., by Judge W. C. Leary in district court.

Judge Leary also granted a stay of sentence to Frank P. O'Malley, another officer of the fur farms company. O'Malley will be sentenced June 1.

Millions Have Spring Fever Say Minn. Doctors

H. J. MUNROE, F. R. B. A. of Champaign, Ill. Consultant to U. S. Government and University of Illinois

DR. DAVID GORDAN, Eminent Physician and Surgeon of Minneapolis

Simple anemia, or spring fever, a general condition throughout the nation at this time, is a serious disease as proven by clinical tests of leading medical authorities. You have spring fever if you feel like taking a day off when you look at the sparkling sunshine. You feel pale, listless, nervous and lack appetite. You are harming yourself by forcing energy and pep which you lack. Underweight is another symptom.

This dreaded condition is due to the lack of Vitamins B, C and D in your winter diet. (Winter milk and vegetables contain practically none of these Vitamins, says Dr. David Gordan, eminent physician and surgeon of Minneapolis.)

An immediate method of building weight, giving you energy, vim and pep, with a return of the usual forceful condition for tackling your daily work, is taking the Vitamins which you have lacked during the winter. The I. S. Johnson Company, who have served the American public for over 110 years, after years of experimentation, have at last been able to combine Vitamins B, C and D in their new discovery, VITALEX. This is sold in both liquid and convenient tablet form on a guarantee that it will banish any tired feeling and give you more energy than you have ever had before, or your money will be immediately refunded at Johnson's Pharmacy or Economy Drug Co.

Millions Have Spring Fever Say Minn. Doctors

DR. DAVID GORDAN, Eminent Physician and Surgeon of Minneapolis

Simple anemia, or spring fever, a general condition throughout the nation at this time, is a serious disease as proven by clinical tests of leading medical authorities. You have spring fever if you feel like taking a day off when you look at the sparkling sunshine. You feel pale, listless, nervous and lack appetite. You are harming yourself by forcing energy and pep which you lack. Underweight is another symptom.

This dreaded condition is due to the lack of Vitamins B, C and D in your winter diet. (Winter, milk and vegetables contain practically none of these vitamins, says Dr. David Gordan, eminent physician and surgeon of Minneapolis.)

An immediate method of building weight, giving you energy, vim and pep, with a return of the usual forceful condition for tackling your daily work, is taking the Vitamins which you have lacked during the winter.

The I. S. Johnson Company, who have served the American public for over 110 years, after years of experimentation, have at last been able to combine Vitamins B, C and D in their new discovery, VITALEX. This is sold in both liquid and convenient tablet form on a guarantee that it will banish any tired feeling and give you more energy than you have ever had before, or your money will be immediately refunded at Johnson's Pharmacy or Economy Drug Co.
